

Response to Anonymous Referee #1

Our attempt to carry out a t-test when the correlation coefficient is so close to unity is indeed trivial, and stemmed, I am afraid from a desire to overuse statistical analysis software. I have added the sentence “Applying Student’s t test is a trivial exercise because the correlation coefficients are so close to unity.”, while removing about 80 words discussing the results of the t-test.