I am not native english. For this reason i think that I am not the better person to discuss the expresion and grammar of the text. So I can tell that all the text is easaly undertand. The result and discussion is not the best of the paper. The results appears like a tool to compare with the methods used by other authors. For this fact, the results may be treated at this way. Not like absoluts results because we can observed importants differences between differents methods.

The figures are enough and clears. The images are not clear in a B/W printed.
