

Calculated measuring error for deviation from strike-orthogonal scanline

S2: Relative error in % for measuring opening widths with scanlines. The error increases slowly with increasing deviation from a strike orthogonal scanline. Errors become significant for deviations $> 60^\circ$ and are less than 1% for deviations $< 60^\circ$. Analytic solution.