Dear professor Xianchuan Xie! thank you for your comments, English spelling will be improved in version of the manuscript after edning the discussions As for you remarks for digital terrain models: in this study we are busy with relatively large forms of relief, so the using of this model was justified. We use a model based on radar data because it has less vegetation effect, in this board for Terrasar-X it is the maximum possible resolution. More detailed description of the models applications will be given in revised version of the manuscript.
