

Dear Editor,

we wish to thank the Martijn van den Ende for the continuous and fruitful discussion about our results. We agree with him that our results should be more quantitative when we speak about correlation between signal amplification and surface geology, and that the present geological data, available to us, should be integrate with more information. Thus, we decided to follow his suggestion and we modified the abstract and the discussion of such point according to his comments. We also included all the other minors modifications.

Best regards,
